CYNTHIANA NEWS.

CYNTHIANA. -- NOVEMBER 4, 1869
A. J. MOREY, EDITOR.

[From the New York World.
Future Politics of the South.

The readiness with which the three Southern States that last year stood out against negro suffrage reconstruction now yield to the demands of Congress, is doubtless wise under the circumstances; but it proves nothing as to the future political action of the South. This apparent triumph of the Radical policy is probably the immediate precursor of its downfall. The chief aim of the Republican party since the close of the war, has been to prevent the Southern States acting in political co-operation with the Northern Democrats. The elective franchise was conferred upon the negroes, in plain violation of the Constitution, in the expectation that the negro vote would be universally anti-Democrat, and that it would be sufficient to turn the scale against the Democratic party in the South, making that section the sure ally of the Republicans. as, in former times, it was of the Democrats. The acceptance of the situation by which Virginia, Mississippi and Texas will regain their places in the Union, will restore to the South its freedom of action, and put a speedy end to the hopes of the Republican party.

It will soon become apparent that the fifteenth amendment, on which the Republicans rely to rivet their policy, will bring them no advantage.
In the first place, even with the extorted ratification of the reconstructed States the amendment is not likely to be adopted. And even if it should be, the Federal government having no right to dictate the action of any State on a constitutional amendment, the whole number should amount to three-fourths (which is contrary to all probability,) and the bogus ratifications should be held good, the pretended amendment would nevertheless be void, because it was never proposed by two-thirds of Congress in a constitutional sense. If it has not been constitutionally submitted, no number of even valid ratifications could make it a part of the Constitution. The fifteenth amendment is intended to secure the permanence of negro suffrage if the Democratic party should come into power; but its futility for this purpose is apparent on the slightest examination. Suppose that KENTUCKY, for example, should continue to exclude negroes from the ballot-box after the fifteenth amendment had been declared ratified; how could she be compelled to admit them? A Democratic Congress would not exclude her Senators and Representatives for such a cause, nor would it pass or continue laws for punishing the State officers who refused to receive the negro votes. If for a while, the House should be Democratic and the Senate Republican, so that such laws could not be repealed, the penalties could not be inflicted, for the reason that the offenders would have to be tried by a jury of the vicinage, and there could not be got into the jury-box twelve men who would agree to punish their fellow citizens for such an offense. After the admission of the three remaining States, military government will be abolished, and there can be no further trials by the military commissions. The fifteenth amendment is hardly worth the support of its enemies; for even if it should be ratified, it will nevertheless be null and nugatory.

We do not judge it probable, however, that the suffrage will be withdrawn from the negroes in the reconstructed States. If, as it seems likely the negroes should be influenced by the common public sentiment of their section, the object for which they were enfranchised will be defeated without any necessity for disturbing the new order of things.
The withdrawal of the army and Freedmen's Bureau deprives the Republicans of their machinery for controlling the negro vote. While the negroes were fed by the Bureau they were willing to exchange votes for rations; but hereafter they will be under the control of local influences.
Their interests will always be identical with the interests of their section; and when questions of finance and taxation loom up into prominence as they will as soon as all the States are readmitted, the negroes will be found voting steadily with the Democratic party.

The South will always be an exporting community, and therefore a strong free-trade community. The cotton crop is too abundant for more than a small fraction of it to find a domestic market; and it is so obviously for the advantage of those who send products for a market to have the tariff abolished, that no protectionist sophistry can confuse even the Southern negroes. The tariff is cried up to the Northern farmers on the ground, that by building up manufactures in their neighborhood, it supplies them with a home market.
But a home market for the Southern cotton crop is an absurdity. The bulk of it will always be exported, and the price of the small part that is consumed at home will be governed by the price abroad. The stupid-est negro on a Southern plantation can see, as clearly as any body sees, that the tariff increases the price of the goods he has occasion to buy, and that his wages or his share of the crop would be worth more to him if the tariff were abolished. The pro-tectionists try to befoul the Northern farmer by telling him that if the tariff compels him to pay more for what he has to buy, it compensates him by enabling him to get more for what he has to sell. But the chief article which the South has to sell must necessarily be sold in a foreign market, and its producers get no part of the pretended compensation for the high prices caused by the tariff.
Light taxes and cheap goods are for the interest of the negroes, as they are for the interest of everybody; and when economical questions come uppermost in politics, the prevailing sentiment of the South will be so decisively on the Democratic side that the negroes can not fail to share it. The fact that the attention of all classes in the South is so largely given to industrial recuperation, is an indication that the section will enter very readily into the economical politics of the new era; and its interests must plant it firmly on the Democratic side. The Republicans in their revolutionary reconstruction, will find that they "went forth for wool and came back shorn;" that, instead of making the Southern States allies of their party, they have made them more certainly its enemies.

Can I Marry?

This question my young friends, working for a moderate salary, have often asked me. Having passed the nervous point of "proposing," they were worrying over the supposed-to-be necessary delay in calling the minister's services into requisition, from a fear lest their income was insufficient for supporting a home.
From a knowledge of the doubts terrified by many of my young friends, and that there are hundreds similarly situated, I write this for their encouragement.

First, have you a good share of pluck? Next, is your "gentle Annie" also willing to make the best of present circumstances?
"Yes." Then it is safe for you to marry on even a small salary. Many times you will have to forget some little luxury that you have come to look upon as a necessity; but you will be surprised to find how little you really need if you boldly set about living economically. The best advice is less to be regarded, perhaps, than a practical example; therefore let me give you some figures that I have at hand from a friend who got married on a salary of $800.

Boarding he has already had enough of, and besides he wanted to feel free to invite a friend to take a meal with himself and wife occasionally, and spend the evening.

Rents were high, but he took four rooms on the second floor of a cottage in an adjoining city, as it was cheaper than in New York. He paid $200 a year, and used one for parlor, one for kitchen, one for regular bedroom, and one for "guest chamber."

In the parlor was a tete-a-tete, costing $15; six rush-seat cottage chairs; $13; table, $6; clock, $3 50; whatnot, $3. In the bed-rooms, two wash-stands, $5 and $3; four walnut chairs, $3; two bedsteads, $6 50 and $9; crockery, $4. In the kitchen, one soaking chair, $2 50; four oak chairs, $7 25; table, $6; stove and fixtures, $19; carving set, $2 50; dinner and tea knives, $4 25; woodenware, $22; crockery, $25; the carpets cost $108 44; the curtains and shades, $13; making a total cost for furnishing completely, in comfort, too, $290 94. He had saved up only three hundred and fifty dollars; so you see his capital was almost gone; but instead of taking a wedding trip, he used the money that it would have cost in laying in a small stock of groceries. Markets being handy he bought in small quantities, for it is better for a young couple to buy thus, even though you pay a little more, than run the risk of food growing stale or spoiling on your hands.
Never get trusted and you will find that the dealer will serve you well.

He gave his wife $6 a week to supply the table, and she managed it admirably. And here let me whisper a thing for you to remember. A wife that is inclined to be a helpmate will always do better if you give her a regular sum each week. She then has a chance to plan ahead, and can exercise her best power of management. Ten chances to one, when Christmas comes, some longed for convenience, deferred on the score of economy, will show itself, bearing the neat handwriting of that dear little wife, and bought with money she had long been laying aside out of her allowance, a cent here, a dime there until she has reaped the reward in your glad surprise.

My dear fellow, you spend more money in that unsatisfactory boarding house for board, and in little expenses with those "gay boys" there, than it would cost you to "keep house" with that cherished being for whose companionship you so long. And when you have her with you, (you know who I mean,) be ever careful to look first to her comfort, and to her convenience, and you may rest assured that you have taken the surest step to happiness and success in life.

Female Poachers—The Terrors of Womanhood.

[From the London Times.
A female poacher is not one who lays running nooses for hairs and rabbits, or goes out on cloudy nights for the chance of knocking over a pheasant or so, but one who trespasses on the erotic preserves of her sisters, and who likes nothing so well as to invade the rights which the formal assignment of a man by bethorral or marriage has bestowed on another woman. In a society like ours, where women are so greatly in excess of men, poachers necessarily abound; and we can not enter a drawing-room where we do not find them playing their vocation, making pleasant sport enough for the husbands, if but meager entertainment for the wives. But a poacher who knows her business, and prefers a snug and safe corner to one that has more dash and excitement and triumphal eclat, but also more danger, is careful not to carry on her game too openly; and above all, she is careful not to offend the wife. On the contrary, a poacher of the wary kind is the wife's most intimate friend; and with an eye to future indemnification and the cleverest method of laying foundations is always ready to devote herself to her when the husband is absent or engaged. Of course she has a stupid time of it; but then there are aried tracts everywhere, and making the bricks for a future pyramid is by no means the liveliest part of the proceeding. Her method is wise if not amusing; for by it she hoodwinks both society and the wife for a time, and under cover of a masked battery makes so much the better practice.
It is only by slow degrees that the wife finds out the real meaning of the poacher's demonstrative affection; only after a progressive series of experiences that she is entitled to whisper "serpent!" in her ear as she shrinks from the kiss which, making believe to come from a friend, is in reality the kiss of a betrayer.

The poacher is frequently a young lady of artless manners and gushing tenderness; strict in theoretical morals when she can be brought to book, but notorious for a certain vagueness, which can neither foresee consequences nor calculate effects. Intending no evil, so she says—and we are bound to take her at her word—she does, undoubtedly, allow herself very considerable latitude; and her manners to men, though pretty and undeniably taking, would be risky even for Arcadia, where all men are pure and all women innocent. But for sinful, passionate England, where our very chits know more than is good for them, and our full-blown dowagers have ferreted out every secret of vice, they are even more than risky. So soon as her friend is engaged or married she takes up quite a sisterly tone towards the preserve, assuming that his state makes him something quite different from the ordinary man, and that henceforth he is safe and she may be free.
She gets into the way of calling him "dear" and "old," as the still more distinct assumption of sisterliness; and she generally kisses him when she sees him. As she kisses, a brother, she says, if this unusual though pleasant habit of hers is objected to by the more conventional of her friends, whom she calls ill-natured and suspicious. Besides, is not the wife standing by while this interesting little ceremony is about? And what harm can there be in it; if she sees it and does not object? All very well; but the wife is not always standing by, and the chances are—human nature being but a rickety concern at best—that the ceremony which is so innocent in her presence acquires a somewhat different tone in her absence. This, of course, the poacher will not admit—indeed, passionately denies; but then poachers never do confess their trade and their traps and snares are for anything but unlawful game.

If the poacher is of a defiant nature, and fond of showing her power, she does not care to make friends with the wife; and then it is open war, and not a masked battery, with certain discomfiture to one or the other in the future. It is an exquisite delight to some women to make men regret on their account—to make them mourn over the infatuation which impelled them to act rashly, so prematurely. If only they had waited! If only they had foreseen the possibility lying for them in that quiet country house—which by the way, they never would have seen at all but for the very accident of their marriage. But they always forget this point, and pick out the circumstances they desire, without taking into consideration the facts which led up to them, and which they do not desire. When a woman of this kind receives the uncomfortable confessions of a husband just beginning to be dissatisfied with his choice; when he tells her with a deprecating sign—kindness warring with his discontent, and the remembrance of his old dreams tempering the harshness of his waking reality—that his wife is all very well, the best creature in the world, he dares say, a great deal too good for him; but oh, so little suited to him!—while such a one as herself, for instance (if hard hit, her very self,) is just the ideal for which his whole nature longs—the very woman cut out for him, and the one he ought to have married—she has attained one of the great ends of her ambition; she has come between the wife and her preserves and has carried off the best of the produce.

In country places where poacher girls abound, they are mainly characterized by great walking powers, a passion for riding, and an inexhaustible aptness for croquet. The poor wife, probably held a close prisoner at home by some phase of the great maternity question, can do none of these things, or, if at all, only fitfully and imperfectly. Whereupon the poacher comes in as a healthy, breezy kind of succedaneum, and takes the bored husband for a splendid spin or a walk—not on the high road—or else goes with him for a spell of spooning or croquet or the lawn, where the pale and weary wife can watch them wistfully through the closed nursery windows. Perhaps the bored husband is a retired "plun-ger," or young man of more means and resources, who though he likes his wife well enough, and the country too for the sake of its sports, likes life and jolly society better.
So he takes to the poacher eagerly.
If his wife was a briskeer companion, he would not have taken to her so warmly; but as things are, she is a God-send unspeakable. He is delighted with her splendid physical health, and thinks the power of walking twelve miles at a stretch the grandest a woman can have; and he is flattered by her affectionate attentions to himself. For poachers make the first advance as a rule—he is not married, and therefore safe? He calls her a capital girl, with no nonsense in her, and blazes out if his wife is unwise enough to show any however:

I was thinking that editors had things most in touch their own way, but I don't see really how it can be helped. They are their own judges and juries, and no body else can say a word agin 'em. No body else has got a paper, and if any body else wanted to criticise or abuse 'em it would be a little too late to get it in.
I've got nothin' special agin editors, only this: They all stand up to one another, and can abuse everybody, and nobody, has a chance to fight back. They aint but one thing that makes em mad with one another and that is for one feller to git more paper dally than the rest git. Then the fur flies, and hides are put on a pole.
The whole unfortunate concern gits mad they remind one of a pig runnin' litter squealin' after him. Editors say its high principle actuatins 'em, but a close observer says, they are mad because the fortunate individual sold out for a less price than they had been askin'.

Grant and the Gold Squabble.

The President of the United States has become mixed up, indirectly, in the great gold speculation which recently transpired on Wall street, New York. Grant has an eye to business, and from indications he intends to give at this particular period of his life "to putting money in his purse," according to the command of his father. That is all right according to his party's creed, but he has been too bold about it.

Mr. Grant has a brother-in-law, named Corbin, who it seems has been acting the go-between, made money and doubtless impoverished one Jay Gould, who gives the following, in the New York World, of October 22nd:

1. That his intimacy with Mr. Corbin, Gen. Grant's brother-in-law, has been close and confidential, and that, during the summer, their meetings and interviews were almost daily.

2. That Gen. Butterfield was appointed Assistant Treasurer by Mr. Corbin's influence, and with a view to favor his speculations; and it was at first intended that Catherwood, Corbin's son-in-law, should be Assistant Treasurer, but it was thought that this appointment would be attended with too much danger, and Catherwood was bought off by a promise of one fourth of the profits made by Corbin and Gould. Butterfield was pitched upon as a man well calculated to cloak the contemplated speculation.

3. That Gen. Grant advanced to Corbin ten or twelve thousand dollars to be used as a margin in a speculation in bonds, and that Corbin's brokers purchased $300,000 worth of bonds to be carried with this margin on account of the President.

4. That Mr. Gould had a personal interview with the President in the summer, at Corbin's house, in which the President told Gould that no gold would be sold before the 1st of November, beyond the regular monthly two millions, and that this information was the basis of the speculation.

5. That Mrs. Grant was in the speculation; half a million of gold having been purchased on her account at 132, which was sold when the price had risen to 137, and the profit, amounting to $25,000, was remitted to her.

6. That when Secretary Boutwell had decided to sell gold and break down the speculation, the President gave a peremptory order to Boutwell forbidding the sale, and that this order was given at the instigation of Corbin.

7. That the final order for the sale of gold was not given until after Corbin had represented to the President that he was out of the speculation.

"The consumer pays the tariff," and any one that buys on a credit, has to pay for that privilege! "Pay as you go" is a good old motto, and A. Williamson sells low down for cash. Do you mind that now?

Neighborhood News.

In Lexington hogs are brisk at $9 per 100 for November delivery, but, as corn does not promise to be very high in price, farmers prefer to feed late and turn as much corn as possible into meat, and are indisposed to sell for an early delivery.

At the sale of Mrs. Oliver Frazer, in Fayette county, on Tuesday, horses sold at from $150 to $450, milch cows from $27 to $90, sows from $30 to $40, shoats from $13 to $15 per head, calves $30 per head, corn in stack $1 20 per shock, hay in stack $13 to $15.

The Woodford Weekly says:—"There has been for some time a proposition to consolidate the fairs around Fayette and hold one near Lexington. Such a fair, if properly managed, would attract an immense crowd and bring much money and trade to that city, but it will not be done in the reign of rope fairs."

The Paris Citizen of Tuesday says: "The trial of John Cox for the murder of Robert Lay, brought by change of venue to this county from Scott, occupied the greater part of the past week. The prosecution was conducted by the Commonwealth's attorney, J. Lawrence Jones, and Captain James E. Cantrill, of Scott. General John C. Breckinridge, of Lexington, and General Humphrey Marshall, of Louisville, were counsel for the defense. The jury failed to agree, and the prisoner was released on bail in the sum of $1,500 to appear at the next term of the court."

Four negro men, who are supposed to form part of a regular hog-stealing band, were captured by some gentlemen last Saturday night, on the old Frankfort road, and lodged in jail at Lexington. Their names are Dennis Robinson, Dennis Jackson, Andrew Riley and Henry Thornton. Two other negro men, Abe Curd and Parker Robinson, who are now in the Fayette county jail, are supposed to belong to the same delectable gang, with Dennis Robinson as leader, or hog-stealer-in-chief. The four thieves that have just been captured had been to Mr. John B. Payne, Jr.'s hog pen, and killed, skinned, cut up, and packed off a hog.

The Lexington Observer and Reporter says: "Our county officials complain of the injurious effects caused by Judge Ballard's neglect of the negro cases sent to his court for disposal. Appearances indicate that some of them are never tried, nor even docketed, and it looks as though a negro charged with an offense has only to obtain a transfer to Louisville, then get some one to go on his bond, and he has little fears of being arrested again unless he repeats his offense and is taken into custody by our county officers. The county jailor says, that Dennis Robinson, the leader of the gang of hog-thieves arrested Saturday night, has spent every winter in jail for three or four years, but, through the neglect of Ballard, has escaped the penitentiary in each instance. Let all good citizens refuse bail to any negro who is charged with theft, if the proof against him be sufficiently strong, and we can at least keep in jail and thereby protect the country from further depredation."

[For the Cynthiana News, COVINGTON, KY., Oct. 30th, 1869. Rev. C. W. Miller, Cynthiana, Ky.]

DEAR SIR:—I have just received a copy of the Cynthiana Democrat containing your letter. In a letter to me of the 2nd of October, you hold the following language:

"For reasons which should suggest themselves to you at once, I utterly decline your proposal to publish now these letters."

It would seem that a very sudden change has come over you, and I am glad, for I want the community to be "informed correctly of the origin, progress and character of this whole matter." Still it would have pleased me better had we commenced publishing when I made the suggestion, but as you "utterly declined" at that time, you doubtless have your reasons for it.

But now to what you have published:

1. I decline, (positively) to arrange for a discussion at Cynthiana, with any other man than yourself. My first reason is, that you have provoked the controversy. You have delivered set sermons at different points, and particularly at Cynthiana, on the action and design of baptism. You have thereby awakened the spirit of controversy. You have at several places, as I have been credibly informed, attacked the teachings of the Christian church (Campbellite, as you term it), and strongly intimated that A. Campbell and those who believed with him, are worse than infidels for teaching baptism for remission of sins. You have essayed to prove that sprinkling and pouring are the scripture modes of baptism. You have endeavored to weaken the confidence of the people in the validity of immersion. You have intimated that there is an abundance of standard authority to prove that baptism means to sprinkle and pour. You have convinced some no doubt that this is so. You have inspired many of your people with confidence in you as a learned man, and as being abundantly able to defend the doctrines you have been preaching in public debate.

2nd. I have a letter from you dated Sept. 9th, in which you held substantially, the following language: "Permit me to say, that I am ready to arrange with you for a discussion of the points at issue between us, at any time or place." This, if I comprehend the force of language, commits you personally to the discussion, unless you see proper positively to decline. Further, the interest of a discussion at Cynthiana, so far as we are concerned, attaches specially to you, for the above, and other similar reasons. We know nothing specially of the Rev. Mr. Noland. He has not been engaged in the discussion of these contraverted questions as you have been. He may be in every sense your equal. Still the people at Cynthiana would not feel the same interest in a discussion with him. Your own brethren would not feel so confident of success. And should he fail to make good the many things you have asserted in that community, your people would say, "Bro. Miller could have done better!" You are therefore, in view of these facts, the man above all others. I hope you will bravely stand your ground, and not feel at liberty to lay the responsibility upon Mr. Noland or any one else. I know you will appreciate my reasons. I have, as you know, reserved the privilege from the beginning of our correspondence, to select some other man if I did not see fit to debate myself. And now in view of all that has transpired, if you decline to engage in the discussion, I will feel no special interest in the matter, and will feel at liberty to decline any further correspondence.

The "reasonable terms" you offer, I can not conscientiously accept. Baptize, a principle term in dispute, is as you ought to know, purely a Greek word. How would you expect to obtain a correct and satisfactory definition of a Greek word, from Webster's English Dictionary? Is this the way you prove that baptize means to sprinkle and pour, from Webster's English Dictionary? I had heard of your asserting that a number of Lexicons so defined it, and I thought if you meant Greek Lexicons, that the assertion was quite wreckless, and betrayed a limited amount of information upon your part; but this leads me to infer that you probably know that not a single Greek Lexicon of any authority can be found, that gives either sprinkle or pour as any definition of the word baptize. You meant English Dictionaries, I have no doubt. We will accept your 2nd proposition without any change. Your 1st, 3rd, 5th and 6th, convince me that you are not willing to meet single and clear issues, and that you are not willing publicly to affirm the things you so boldly preached in your set sermons.

On the action of baptism, we will affirm immersion. Will you deny? If not, then there is no logical issue between us about immersion, and the debate must be about something else. Not something that we teach, but something that you teach. Will you then affirm that sprinkling water upon a proper subject is Christian baptism? We will deny.

This is a fair logical issue. It is what you boldly and unqualifiedly taught in your set discourses at Cynthiana and elsewhere. It is what you teach and practice, and try to get every body to accept as valid baptism. Will you affirm it in a debate? I see not how you can honorably refuse. You owe it to yourself, to your brethren, and to the people of Cynthiana, who heard your sermons, to make good in public discussion what you taught then, and what you usually teach and practice. I trust therefore, (for your own sake) that you will boldly meet the issue, and not go back for what you have said.

2. I do not teach that faith, repentance and immersion are "equally necessary" to remission of sins. I do not know that they are, and would not attempt to prove it. We will affirm what we believe and teach, viz: Baptism to a penitent believer is for remission of sins. Will you deny? Your 4th, I would alter as follows: The Holy Spirit sometimes converts sinners without the Word of Truth. This is precisely what you believe and teach, in proof of which you often pray when you have sinners at the mourners bench, for the Lord to "send down converting power"—"baptize these sinners with the Holy Ghost and fire." We will deny. Your 5th proposition, I do not believe, and therefore, could not affirm. The following presents the issue between us fair and clear: The church of Christ began subsequent to the beginning of the ministry of John the Baptist. Will you deny? In reference to your 6th, I have this to say; our people believe in human depravity. If then there is an issue here between the Methodist Church and the Christian Church, it is in the degree or inveteracy of this depravity. The question is so loosely and so bunglingly stated in the 7th article of your Discipline, that I am not sure that I understand its meaning, and I very much question whether you do yourself. To make a clear intelligible issue however, we will deny the following: All men by nature are totally and hereditarily depraved. Will you affirm? Then we would have,

1. Immersion is Christian baptism. You deny—or, sprinkling is Christian baptism. We deny.

2. Baptism to a penitent believer, is for remission of sins. You deny.

3. Infant baptism is authorized by the Word of God. We deny.

4. The church of Christ began subsequent to the beginning of the ministry of John the Baptist. You deny.

5. The Holy Spirit sometimes converts sinners without the Word of Truth. We deny.

6. All men by nature are totally and hereditarily depraved. We deny. I would suggest, if it meets your approbation, that we omit the 5th and 6th, and confine the discussion to the first four, as they would occupy most of the week, and the debate would be more interesting and profitable to the people.

"Here, 'then,' is a list of plain, fair and exhaustive propositions. Are you willing to meet an opponent and discuss them before the people? Please answer through this paper." Respectfully yours,

P. B. WILES.

LET US PROTECT OURSELVES.

The physical structure of the strongest human being is vulnerable everywhere. Our bodies are covered by nature with a certain negative power, which protects them, to some extent, from unwholesome influences; but this protection is imperfect, and cannot be safely relied on in unhealthy regions, or under circumstances more than ordinary danger. Therefore, it is wisdom; it is prudence; it is common sense to provide against such contingencies, by taking an antidote in advance; in other words, by fortifying the system with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS—the most complete protective against all the epidemic maladies that have ever been administered in any country. As a remedy for Dyspepsia, there is no medicine that will compare with it. Whoever suffers the pangs of indigestion, anywhere on the face of the earth where HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS can be procured, does so voluntarily, for, as surely as truth exists, this invaluable TONIC and ALTERNATIVE would restore his disordered stomach to a healthy condition. To the nervous it is also especially recommended, as it cures all nervous prostration, and it also affords speedy and permanent relief.

In all cases of fever and ague the BITTERS is more potent than any amount of quinine, while the more dangerous cases of bilious fever yield to its wonderful properties. Those who have tried the medicine will never use another, for any of the ailments which the HOSTETTER BITTERS professes to cure. To those who have not made the experiment, we cordially recommend an early application to the BITTERS whenever they are stricken by disease of the digestive organs. October 21, 1869.—Imo.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Consumption. To those who have tried the object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable; and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription, will please address Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, King Co., New York. June 10, 1869.—ly.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Frequent Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send true to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience, can do so by addressing, in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, No. 42 Cedar-st., New York. June 10, 1869.—ly.

A Card.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous Weakness, Early Decay, Diseases of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. Address JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

CYNTHIANA, KY.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1899.

LOCAL MATTER.

Buy yourself a hat at A. Williamson's.

Next Monday is County Court day in Harrison.

Our friend G. R. Sharpe, Esq., is "Home again" from Missouri.

WANTED.—All accounts past due to Riekel & Rauh, must be paid immediately, if not sooner, or they will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

Mc. Pendleton, of Ohio, passed through this city last Sunday.

Maj. McDowell and Lady, arrived at Cynthiana last Monday evening. They are welcome.

A full set of Black Jewellery, with chain and bracelet for sale, at Riekel & Rauh, for one dollar.

Has Cynthiana any night police? If so, where were they Tuesday night while that fuss was in progress on the corner of Main and Pleasant. Echo, answers where?

HOTEL FOR SALE OR RENT.—The Harrison Hotel is now for sale or rent, for terms apply immediately to JAS. L. GRIFFITH.

Last Tuesday evening, J. A. Garrett, familiarly known as "old yank," arrived in town from Illinois. He was in a "weaving way," but he was happy and gay.

The Turkey Butchers have arrived in Cynthiana. They commence a destructive warfare on that character of Fowls immediately. They give 75 cents for hens and one dollar for gobblers. This provender goes to Boston.

Pretty caps, for boys, at A. Williamson's. They are cheap.

The Leake plantation in Madison Parish, La., containing 2,690 acres, was a few days since, sold by the United States Marshal for $3,000 cash. It was valued before the war at $300,000, and there were mortgages on it to the amount of $290,000.

Riekel & Rauh, are the sole agents for Jno. Holland's celebrated Gold Pens—and they have a large stock of Pens and pen-holders, for the pocket and desk.

Mr. Jas. Hill, of Lexington, Mo., is about shipping East a lot of excellent cattle, among which four were weighed one day last week, and pulled down respectively 2,840, 2,900, 2,526 and 2,200, or a total of 10,150 pounds.

The Texas upland fields are white with cotton, but nobody engaged in picking it out. In the river bottom fields the cotton is not all opened yet. Getting sufficient hands to save the crop, now it is grown, seems to be the serious difficulty.

Our friend, Mr. Baker, of this city, has a son residing near Claiborne, Mississippi, who writes home that he has raised with four hands, 15 bales of cotton, 800 bushels corn, and potatoes enough to feed the people of his State for one year.

Last Monday night, Dr. Ruthertford, was called professionally to the Southern portion of our town, on Main Street, and fastening his horse, stepped into a house where he remained but ten minutes, and on his return found his horse gone. The next morning the Doctor found his horse at the Livery Stable. The black boy said that an Irishman had brought him there the night before, and had him fed well as he intended to use him in the morning.

You can buy a good whole leather kip boot, from A. Williamson for $4.50. Other houses charge $6 for the same. Quite a difference, isn't it?

Riekel & Rauh have a splendid assortment of watches on hand at this time. They have just received a number of the Celebrated Elgin Watches, in gold and silver cases, which should be seen to be appreciated, any of which can not be surpassed in beauty of finish, workmanship or time.

You can buy a first rate boys boot, 9 to 11, from A. Williamson for $1.50. Other houses charge $2.50 for the same kind.

You can buy the cheapest baby shoes at A. Williamson's.

You can buy a Sunday call boot from A. Williamson cheaper than any where we know of.

Riekel & Rauh have just received a large assortment of Clocks from the Manufactory, which they will sell very low, and which they will warrant as excellent time keepers.

Black and Turtle Shell Jewellery, of every variety, for sale at Riekel and Rauh. Call and see them.

Last Monday was County Court Day at Paris, and the following sales are reported by A. W. Lydick, Auctioneer: Large amount of stock on the market. Mules bringing fair prices. Cattle selling at prices fully up to last months sales. No demand for horses, except plugs selling from $50 to $100. Large crowd in town. Most of sales on time.

You can buy cheap morocco shoes at A. Williamson's.

We are glad to learn that our excellent friend, Capt. R. S. Williams, Editor of the "Kentuckian," Paris, Ky., has been appointed Editor in chief of the "True Templar." We are pleased to see decent people advanced, especially so, when their qualifications are as good as those of our friend W.'s.

Garrett Davis, was appointed a delegate from this State to the Convention which recently met at St. Louis, for the purpose of considering the removal of the Capital of the United States. Since the adjournment of the Convention he has published a letter addressed to the Governor of our State, in which it is plainly seen that Davis is opposed to its removal, and his arguments are as chaffy and insignificant as his little self. From the description given of the Government by Mr. Davis, we are inclined to believe that hell would be its proper place of location.

When the PLANTATION BITTERS were first made known to the American people some seven years ago, it was supposed that they were an entirely new thing, and had never before been used. So far as their general use in the United States is concerned, this may be true. It is also true that the same Bitters were made and sold in the Island of St. Thomas, over forty years ago, as any old planter merchant or sea captain doing business with the West Indies will tell you. It is distinctly within my recollection that on the return of my father (who was a sea captain, and doing an extensive trade in the tropics) he would invariably have these Bitters among the ship's stores, and our family sideboard was never without them. For any sickness, it matters not how severe or trifling, the decanter of these Bitters, by a different name was always resorted to as a sovereign remedy.

APPLES.—Some weeks since a large apple was sent to us by Mrs. James Warnal. We noticed it, as one of uncommon size. The Missouri Statesman found one which weighs one pound and eight ounces. The Editor of the Decatur (Ills.) Magnet has been calling on the people of his State, for an apple which will beat in size and weight, the one sent us by Mrs. W., also the one sent to the Editor of the Missouri Statesman. We understand that Mrs. W., has another apple which weighs 2 pounds. Now Miller, this is apple enough for you—send for it—but don't say it was raised in Illinois.

Remember that A. Williamson sells a good split-leather boot for $3. Other houses charge $1.50 more for the same article. "A penny saved is equal to two made."

George Robinson, colored, was tried in the Criminal Court Tuesday, upon an indictment for bigamy. It was proven that he married Johanna Wade, in April, 1869; that after living with her a few months he deserted her, and in August 1869, filed a petition in the Kenton Circuit Court for a divorce; that while the case was pending he obtained a license and married Harriet Capps. Wife No. 1 caused his arrest the day following his second nuptials, and he has since been lying in the City Jail. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, and fixed the punishment of the defendant at confinement in the penitentiary for three years. This is the first negro prosecuted for bigamy in Kentucky. [Cov. Journal.]

At the sign of the big boot and golden hat, don't fail to go for cheap bargains.

For a good article of boots and shoes, remember that A. Williamson sells the cheapest.

CATTLE STEALING.—On Tuesday night, October 26th, eight fat cattle were stolen from the pastures of Kirtley Jameson, who resides, about four miles north of Paris, in Bourbon county. They were brought to this depot, and shipped to Covington, on Wednesday night, by a man who gave his name as H. H. Wilson. They were sold at the Pens in Covington to Livingston & Co., (New York shippers,) for $722. The check was drawn in favor of J. T. Wilson, and cashed—and as a night has been heard of the thief, he could be called "walk away Wilson."

Mr. J., did not miss his stock until Thursday morning, when his son followed them to this depot. Here information was gained to the effect that Mr. Wilson was not able to procure cars to ship until night, and as he doubtless feared that he would be overtaken and captured, left them in the pens here, hiring a colored man to ship them for him.

The cattle arrived in Covington on Thursday morning, having had nothing to eat or drink since Tuesday night, and without much quibbling their possession was given to Livingston & Co., for the sum above stated, and these gentlemen were about shipping them to New York City, when Mr. Jameson found them at the Little Miami Railroad Depot, and attached and proved his property. Livingston & Co., gave another check for the eight fat cattle, paying the same price that they had paid "walk away Wilson"—in all $1,444.

The Covington & Lexington Railroad Company vs. R. B. Bowler's Heirs and others.

All the points raised by the demurrers in this case were decided by Judge Menzies in favor of the plaintiffs, except one—which arose upon the eighth plea of the defendants setting up the lapse of more than five years after the cause of action occurred and after the discovery of the alleged frauds of Bowler, as a bar to the action. To this plea the plaintiffs demurred, and Judge Menzies over-ruled the demurrer.

As to this plea Judge Menzies said: "The statute is explicit that relief sought on the ground of fraud must be claimed within five years after the discovery of the fraud. But it is contended that this action is for the recovery of real property, and therefore fifteen years is the limitation. The question is not free from doubt, and as it has been suggested by counsel, where serious doubts exist, the pleading should prevail against the demurrer in a court from which there is an appeal."

The Judge thereupon resolved the doubt in favor of the defendants, and over-ruled the plaintiffs demurrer. The case will now proceed, and upon the further hearing the defendants will have to prove the truth of this plea.

We have been furnished with the following outline of the argument of Mr. Stanbery, counsel for the plaintiffs, on this point.

Mr. Stanbery said that the defense set up in the eighth paragraph of the answer was founded on the following clauses of the Kentucky Act of Limitations.

1st. That clause of the second section of the third article which provides that "an action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake shall be commenced within five years next after the cause of action accrued."

And upon section fifth of the same article which provides that "in actions for relief for fraud or mistake, or damages for either, the cause of action shall not be deemed to have accrued until the discovery of the fraud or mistake."

In Kentucky, the limitation does not apply to the form of action, but to the subject matter of the action. And the first and principal division of the subject matter is into actions for the recovery of real property and other actions.

The first article of the act is entitled "Actions or suits for the recovery of real estate," and the second section of the same article fixes the limitation at fifteen years of any action for the recovery of real property.

The third article of the act is entitled "Actions other than for real estate." The first section of this article is as follows:

"Civil actions, other than those for the recovery of real property shall be commenced within the following period after the cause of action has accrued, and not after."

Then, in the second section of the same article various causes of action are enumerated, and among others "an action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake"—all which are to be brought within five years. It is true that the actions brought by the Covington & Lexington Railroad Company against Bowler's representatives and assignees, is brought for relief on the ground of fraud, and in that particular, seems to come within the purview of the above section—but the relief for which action is brought is the recovery and restoration to the company of its rail road and appurtenances, including its rolling stock and other equipments.

This is real property—not personal property—and therefore the action for its recovery can not be barred in less than fifteen years.

It has never been questioned that the railway, rails and depots are real property, and these form the principal items in a railway. It has been sometimes doubted whether the equipment of the road does not remain personal property after it has become a part of the road, but the prevailing doctrine is that a railroad is an entirety, and in this case it is especially so, for the road bed and its equipment were all mentioned in the mortgage, and sold as an entirety to Mr. Bowler.

No State has gone further than Kentucky in holding that a railroad with its equipments forms one entire thing, and is to be classed as real property.

This then being an action to recover real property it is all the same whether the right to recover is based on contract—or on a paramount title—or on fraud—and no time short of fifteen years will be a bar to the recovery.

Undoubtedly relief on the ground of fraud may arise out of real property and be barred in five years, as in actions for damages.

For instance, if the plaintiffs in this case had sought to obtain relief in an action against Mr. Bowler for damages sustained by the loss of their road through his fraudulent practices, such an action would have been brought to recover—not the road—not the real property—but so much money in lieu of it, and as a compensation for its loss, and consequently being an action "other than those for the recovery of real property," would have come under the five years limitation.

The fact that the fraud of the defendant is one element of the grounds of relief on which a recovery of real property is based, has no effect in shortening the time within which the action may be commenced. To give it such effect would lead to manifest absurdity. For instance, the bona fide purchaser of land, whose title is tainted with no fraud, may be ousted at any time short of fifteen years by the holder of a better title—while the fraudulent purchaser would be protected in five years.

A WATCH, pair of Blankets. Quilt Shawl for One Dollar appears almost impossible, but such may be had and hundreds of other useful articles, by patronizing PARKER & CO.'S, "ONE DOLLAR SALE."

Their system of doing business has been examined by authorities and a decision rendered from the Internal Revenue department at Washington, dated Nov. 4th, 1898, declaring their business perfectly fair and legitimate and entirely different from the numerous enterprises. Of course all do not get watches, blankets, etc., for One Dollar, but in every large Club, one of these articles are sold for One Dollar, as an extra inducement, and some member of the club has the chance of obtaining it. A New feature introduced by the enterprising firm, is to pay their agents in either cash or merchandise and to pre-pay the express charges. No better opportunity can be offered to Ladies or Gentlemen, having leisure time, than to form a club for this firm.

The Paris and London Paper, Clothing Company.

OUTFITS FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.

THE undersigned would most respectfully inform the public that the agency for the above, under letters patent, celebrated manufactured Paper Goods, is established, and for the first time introduced in the United States.

Among the various accomplishments of science and art, this may be considered one of the greatest achievements of the age.

The reason, which these Goods have obtained in Europe for their exquisite elegance, flexibility, great durability and cheapness will at once recommend them to the American public.

NOTICE, LADIES—NO MORE WASHING, NO MORE IRONING, NO MORE TENSION!

The great invention of PAPER CLOTHING, which cannot be detected from linen fabrics, and at one-half the price formerly paid for washing.

It would be impossible to give here all the advantages which these goods possess in an eminent degree. They must be seen to be appreciated.

The great demand for them, upon the manufacturers in Europe, prevented them thus far from sending a large supply. Thus the first invoice I will dispose of in small quantities only, merely to introduce and show their merit.

Wholesale dealers will not be dealt with for the present. No order will be filled for more than one dozen of any one article at one time to the same address.

The only Reliable Cure for Dyspepsia in the known World.

DR. WISHART'S GREAT AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA PILLS AND PINK TREE CODIAL ARE a positive and infallible cure for dyspepsia in its most aggravated form, and no matter of how long standing.

They eradicate the secret abode of this terrible disease, and exterminate it, root and branch, forever.

They purify the more agony and almost suffering Stomach, and they are noted for curing the most desperate and hopeless cases, when every known means fail to afford relief.

No Brisk dyspeptic can resist their penetrating power.

DR. WISHART'S PINK TREE TAR CODIAL.

It is the vital principle of the Pink Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite. It strengthens the debilitated system. It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which scrofula breeds on the lungs. It dissolves the mucus or phlegm which stops the air passages of the lungs. Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain and subduing inflammation. It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted with positive assurance of its power to cure the following diseases, if the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure—

Consumption of the Lungs, Cough, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, Liver Complaint, Bilind and Bleeding, Cough, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, &c.

A medical expert, holding honorable college diplomas, devotes his entire time to the examination of patients at the office parlors. Associated with him are three consulting physicians of acknowledged eminence, whose services are given to the public FREE OF CHARGE.

This opportunity is offered by no other institution in the country.

Letters from any part of the country, asking advice, will be promptly and gratuitously responded to. Where convenient, remittances should take the shape of DRAFTS OR POST-OFFICE ORDERS.

DOOTY'S WASHING MACHINE,

LATELY MUCH IMPROVED--AND THE NEW

Universal Clothes Wringer.

Improved with Rowell's Patent Double Cog-wheels, and the Patent Stop, are now unquestionably the superior of any apparatus for washing clothes ever invented, and will save their cost twice a year, by saving labor and clothes.

Those who have used them give testimony as follows:

"We use our machine much; could not be persuaded to do without it, and with the aid of Doty, we feel that we are masters of the situation."--Rev. L. Scott, Bishop M. E. Church.

"It is worth a dollar a week in any family."--N. Y. Tribune.

"In the laundry of my house there is a perpetual thanksgiving on Mondays for the invention."--Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler.

"Every week has given it a stronger hold upon the affections of the inmates of the laundry."--N. Y. Observer.

"I heartily commend it to economists of time, money, and contentment."--Rev. Dr. Bellows.

"Friend Doty--Your last improvement of your Washing Machine is a complete success. I assure you your Machine, after a year's use, is thought more of to-day than ever, and would not be parted with under any circumstances."--Solon Robinson.

"Your Washing Machine has been in daily use in our laundry, and the housekeeper expresses herself as highly pleased with it. It certainly accomplishes a greater amount of work, with less labor, and does not wear the clothes near so much as the old fashioned wash-board. By using it, one landress is dispensed with."--Wm. M. F. Round, Superintendent of Infant Department of St. Catherine's Nursery, N. Y. City.

PRICES--A Fair Offer.

Send the retail price, Washer $14, Extra Wringer $8, and we will forward either or both machines, free of freight, to places where no one is selling; and so sure are we they will be liked, that we agree to refund the money if any one wishes to return the machines free of freight, after a month's trial, according to directions.

No husband, father or brother should permit the drudgery of washing to last the hands fifty-two days in the year, when it can be done better, more expeditiously, with less labor, and no injury to the garments, by a Doty's Clothes Washer, and a Universal Wringer.

Canvassers with exclusive right of sale make money fast selling them.

Sold by dealers generally, to whom liberal prices are made.

CHEMIST

HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, Glanders, Yellow Water, Heaves, Coughs, Distemper, Tetters, Pouches, Loss of Appetite, and Vital Energy, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite, gives a smooth and glossy skin, and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Ringworm, Hollow Horn, &c. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk, and cream twenty per cent, and make the butter firm and sweet.

In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, tones their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of the lungs, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to one paper in a barrel of sawdust, the above disease will be eradicated or entirely prevented. Given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

DR. HUNTER,

CONTINUES to treat all private diseases,

Cyphitis, all forms of gonorrhea, gleet, stricture, &c., completely eradicated. That numerous class of cases resulting from self-abuse, producing manhood, nervous debility, irritability, eruptions, seminal emissions, and finally impotency, permanently cured. Persons afflicted with delicate, intricate, and long-standing complaints are politely invited to call for consultation, which costs nothing. Experience, the best of teachers, has enabled him to perfect remedies at once efficient, safe, permanent, and which in most cases can be used without hindrance to business. Medicine prepared in the establishment, which embraces office, reception and waiting rooms, also boarding and sleeping apartments for patients requiring daily personal attention, and vapor and chemical baths, thus concentrating the famed mineral springs. Both sexes, married or single, suffering from indiscretions, indulgences, or exposure, may apply and be cured. No matter who have failed, state your case. Read what he says in his pamphlet, sent to any address free. Thousands of cures treated annually at office and all over the country. Consultation free, personally or by mail. Office, No. 13 Third Street, between Green and Walnut, near the postoffice, Louisville, Ky. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 7 P. M.; Sundays, 10 A. M. to 12 M. July 7, 1889-1y.
